1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm blanket I had been under. I shivered as I walked towards the entrance. The door was open, and a bright light greeted me. I took a deep breath and stepped inside. The room was large and airy, with high ceilings and large windows.
I looked around, trying to get my bearings. There were people everywhere, some standing in lines, others walking through the aisles. I felt a bit lost, but I knew I had to find my way to the front desk. I followed a group of people and saw a sign that said "Check-in". I walked up to the counter and handed over my ticket.
The woman behind the counter smiled at me and said, "Welcome to the hotel. Your room is on the third floor. The elevator is over there." She pointed towards a set of stairs. I thanked her and started up. The stairs were carpeted and well-lit. I reached the third floor and found my room. It was a single room, but it was clean and comfortable. I took a shower and got ready for bed. I lay in bed, looking out the window at the city lights. I felt a sense of peace and relaxation. It was a good start to my trip.
